General

Genkgo offers an IT ecosystem for member based communities. The basis of this ecosystem consist of online management software for board members or staff of these communities. Genkgo's objective is to offer a total package in order to enable as many communities as possible to perform their management tasks and as such be able to pursue their goals.

Generic software for different kinds of communities

The software consists of several applications, each with their own purpose. Clients can compose a package in line with their goals. Each application has the same functionality for all clients. The software is the product of years of experience, development and fine tuning, with the help and direct feedback from our clients.
